DURANT

CLEMENT I, Bishop of Rome

AD 89 (Jan)

Trayan marched his legion to the Rhine to assist the emperor Domitian in suppressing the rebellion of Saturninus, governor of Upper Germany, but arrived too late to take part in the action.

Jan. 89

Another conspiracy against Domitian
It was more in the nature of a military mutiny. Leader was LUCIUS ANTONIUS SATURNINUS, governor of Upper Germany; because probably dissatisfaction with Domitian's policy of appeasement towards the Germans the uprising was quickly stamped out by L. A. PPIUS MAXIMUS, governor of Lower Germany

Domitian was forced to back off the Dacian war and come to terms with the Dacian King Decebalus so he could fight the Quadi and Marcomanni on the Upper Danube
